Quote of the Week

"His mother said to the servers, 'Do whatever he tells you.'"

~John 2:5

PORCH

PORCH communities (People of Respect Compassion and Hope) are popping up all over campus. PORCH communities are small faith-sharing groups of around 6-12 members who gather weekly for prayer, reflection, and conversation. Ranging from a Sucker Free Study, a Bible study focusing on the study of gospels, an Open PORCH for students who have gone on retreats, to residence hall gatherings, there is something for everyone. If you are curious about when and where these groups meet investigate the Campus Ministry website. Information about PORCH communities can be found on the Faith Communities and Programs tab.

PORCH communities also gather as a larger group. On February 10 at 7:07 p.m. they will be combining creative forces to make Valentine's Day cards for the elderly in local nursing homes and reflect upon the gifts of inter-generational relationships. PORCH communities also gather for food, service and other social events. If you are interested in deepening your faith, forming community, and sharing meaningful conversation, these groups are for you! Please feel free to contact Allison Leigh or any of the PORCH group leaders with your questions – we would love to help find a group that is best for you!
